Message from CSLA President

January 2001

On behalf of the CSLA Executive, I bring you greetings and best wishes for the new year. Your Executive has been very busy since the Annual Conference in Edmonton with the usual management business of the organization, as well as launching several new initiatives.

Our Vice-President, President-elect, Karin Paul collected information on the state of school libraries in Canada and, in November, she and I presented it to Roch Carrier, Canada's National Librarian. We will also put this information on the CSLA website. I met with officials at the National Library in Ottawa about starting to collect core statistics on school libraries in Canada. This is an area where we need some current information quickly in order to convince decision-makers about the need to renew school library programs. They were positive about this idea and I feel something will come of it soon.

We continue to work closely with our colleagues in the Association for Teacher-Librarianship in Canada. I am part of the joint committee formed between the two organizations and we are working on three areas: 1) A national standards document for information literacy in Canada; 2) a national clearing house of information on school libraries to be managed and housed with the National Library of Canada; and 3) a joint national school library conference to be held this year in Winnipeg in partnership with CLA. At this conference we will present our efforts on the national standards document and the results of the national clearing house initiative. The Annual Conference will be held in Winnipeg in June so visit the CLA website for details. We are planning it as a major national school library event at which provincial and territorial groups will give feedback on the work we have done to develop the national standards documents. I encourage you to attend this important event and take in the whole conference.

The CSLA Executive is very proud of the work our Editors, Lillian Carefoot and John Caldwell have done in producing this "Sources" edition of School Libraries in Canada, which is now in its third year. Together with our Managing Editor, Don Hamilton, "Sources" has quickly become one issue of SLIC that people all over the country read and refer to frequently. I hope you enjoy the tremendous amount of information found in this issue and that you will take the time to contact our Editors and let them know what you like about SLIC.

One last item: we have started a new electronic distribution list through which we will send our members direct news and notes from the CSLA Executive. If you are a member of CSLA, we will soon send you an advance copy of the Vision Statement for the new standards document for your feedback. Please take the time to read it and contact me at any time.

Searching the Internet

Some Important Search Engines & Services

Debbie Abilock's Famous Page<http://nuevaschool.org/~debbie/library/research/adviceengine.html>

This offers advice on the best engine or service to use for specific questions and issues. Almost all the engines and services below are covered by her grid.

All the Web www.alltheweb.com

This is the service that promises the fastest searches complete with a micro second clock.

Alta Vista www.altavista.com

A comprehensive engine.

Ask Jeeves www.askjeeves.com

Ask a question in plain English.

Direct Hit www.direct.com

Division of AskJeeves. "The Popularity Engine" because it ranks results by the choices that users are making in similar queries.

Dogpile www.dogpile.com

Fast multiple search access offering quick best access to first ten (or more) items in each one.

HotBot www.hotbot.lycos.com

Use HotBot for media, geographic, and date searching. The first 10 results in HotBot are derived from Direct Hit.

Go/InfoSeek www.go.com

Go is a portal site produced by Infoseek and Disney. It offers portal features such as personalization and free e-mail, plus the search capabilities of the former Infoseek search service, which has now been folded into Go.

Google www.google.com

Claims over 1.3 billion page searches. Offers a web Directory as well as a word search approach.

Lycos www.lycos.com

A small index that features directory results taken from the Open Directory <dmoz.org/about.html>. Relates to HotBot.

www.hotbot.lycos.comNorthern Lightwww.northernlight.com

Offers access to documents and articles for a charge but searches for free.

SearchEdu.comwww.searchedu.com

A search service that specializes in retrieving Web pages from individual top-level domains: edu. gov and mil. Includes over 20 million university and education pages indexed and ranked in order of popularity. Offers several important online reference tools.

Feature Length Films

Most Popular Feature Length Films

Most producers of feature length films require a site license in order to show their productions in the classroom. In Canada, producers are covered by either Criterion or Audi Cine Films (ACF). A few producers include Public Performance Rights in the sale price of their video, and for these no license is required.

The titles on these lists, and most others, can be purchased from Canadian Video Services Inc. (CVS), Mary-Beth Ryan, Director of Educational Sales, 40 Scollard St., Toronto, ON, M5R 3S1. 1-800 263-1258 / 416 925-5857 Fax: 416 925-6436.
